Thanks to Daniel Jobe and Capitol Cadillac for hosting another successful car show. This past show marked our 20th annual spring event at Capitol Cadillac. Our Region is extremely appreciative of their continued support, and looks forward to co-hosting another theme show, Dazzling DeVilles, this fall.

As with our shows in the past, a multitude of members volunteered to ensure that things ran smoothly throughout the day. For some, like Sandy Kemper, it started earlier in the week with picking up absorbent pads that were donated by Rob Burchill, NAPA Auto Parts Manager of the Rockville and Colesville/Cloverly stores. Every car in the showroom had pads placed underneath of them. For Dan & Jo Jo Ruby and Henry Ruby, it started on Friday with buying breakfast supplies for the show. It continued on Saturday with them setting up the coffee machine at the dealership and setting its timer for Sunday morning. It started on Saturday for Jack McClow as well, as he picked up out-of-town guests Bob Crimmins and Jeff Montgomery who arrived from New Jersey via Amtrak.

On Sunday morning, volunteers arrived by 7:30 AM to ensure that the registration area and parking needs would be set-up in time for our first show participants, who arrived before 8:00 AM. Thanks to Franklin Gage, Bill Hilliard, Jack McClow, Rick Menz, Bob Norrid, Chuck & Debbie Piel, Caleb Ruby, Dan & JoJo Ruby, Henry Ruby and yours truly, we were ready for them. Soon after, more volunteers arrived including Alida Alsop, George & Rita Boxley, Derrick Fisher, Tom McQueen, R. Scot Minesinger, Harry Scott, Richard Sills and Debbie Taylor.

Throughout the day, volunteers covered the entire show to capture some great photos for our publication. Thanks to Bob Crimmins, Franklin Gage, Bill Hilliard, R. Scot Minesinger, Dan Ruby, and DJ Mikey Veilleux. DJ Mikey, who began the show with the customary playing of the National Anthem, did a great job of playing music and making announcements.

Our condolences go out to Sandy Kemper & Anne Gavin on the recent passing of Sandy's sister.

Vince Taliano

POTOMAC REGION CELEBRATES 20TH ANNUAL SPRING SHOW AT CAPITOL CADILLAC
STORY BY RICHARD SILLS
PHOTOS BY BOB CRIMMINS, FRANKLIN GAGE, BILL HILLIARD, R. SCOT MINESINGER, DAN RUBY AND MICHAEL VEILLEUX

Sunday May 15, 2011 began as a cloudy day, and the weather forecast called for rain. But the clouds parted and bright sunshine took their place as the elegant Cadillacs rolled onto the grounds of Capitol Cadillac in Greenbelt, Maryland, for the Potomac Region's 20th Annual Spring Show.

Cadillacs from 1929 through recent models filled the showroom, the service lane and the spacious parking lot of Capitol Cadillac. Forty-four Cadillacs (but no LaSalles) attended, representing the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia. While the weather forecast undoubtedly reduced the number of cars present, no one could have hoped for a more outstanding variety of cars, including rare models and cars of extraordinary quality.

June 2011

One of the stars of the showroom was a unique supercharged 1953 Eldorado exhibited by Scott Milestone of Rockville, Maryland (pictured right). This car was reportedly built at the Cadillac factory by Cadillac Test Engineer Frank Burrell for its first owner, John E. Alexander, a friend of Harley Earl. The supercharger along with twin four-barrel carburetors were said to produce 300 horsepower. To draw attention, special unmuffled side exhaust pipes were designed that could be opened via a cut-out lever, or closed for quiet operation. This unique car may have also been the inspiration for the Cadillac convertible used in the popular comic book and CBS cartoon series of the early 1990s titled Cadillacs and Dinosaurs.

Another showroom star was a 1958 Eldorado Brougham shown by Ed Silva of Clarksville, Maryland. This exquisite example in Chamonix White was one of only 304 Broughams produced that year. They featured air suspension, a stainless steel roof, mouton carpeting, a compound curved windshield, automatic opening and closing trunk, memory seats, alloy wheels, quad headlights with Autronic Eye (automatic dimming), six magnetic shot glasses, a ladies' compact with cigarette case, make-up mirror and lipstick tube, a note pad with a Cross pencil, and a dispenser of Arpege perfume. It's no wonder that production was limited, because the price tag of $13,074 was enough money to buy a nice new suburban house in 1958.

The 1958 Brougham was similar in appearance to the 1957, but in 1958 the compression ratio was increased to 10.25:1, the horsepower went to 335, and three Rochester two-barrel carburetors replaced the dual Carter four-barrel carburetors from 1957.

Pete Sanders' 1930 V-16 Madame X and Joe Wozniak's 1972 Eldorado Convertible
in the background

Yet another stunning car was the 1930 V-16 "Madame X" exhibited by Pete Sanders of McLean, Virginia. 1930 was the first year of Cadillac's V-16 production, when General Motors decided to "one-up" the twelve-cylinder offerings of its competitor Packard. The 452 cubic inch engine is a work of art to look at, as well as a mechanical masterpiece. The exotic "Madame X" designation, named for a contemporary stage play, signifies a top-level Fleetwood series that usually (although not always) featured the flat one-piece slightly sloping windshield generally found on Detroit-produced cars, as distinguished from the cars with two-piece V-shaped windshields produced at the Fleetwood plant in Pennsylvania.

Another showroom-displayed beauty was a black 1948 Fleetwood Sixty Special exhibited by Rich Mahan of Lanham, Maryland. Your author had never seen this car before, and was impressed by its understated elegance. 1948 was a watershed year for Cadillac -- the first year for the iconic post-war tailfin, and the last year for the venerable flathead V-8 engine. It featured the delightful one-year-only 1948 dashboard design, with instruments clustered in a deep pod under the dashboard line. Some observers have called this a "rainbow" instrument panel because of its sweeping lines. 1948 Cadillacs are fairly uncommon because production started unusually late (February 1948), making it a short model year with demand greatly exceeding supply.

by Richard Sisson) and Henry Sittner's
1964 Fleetwood Series 60 Special

Cadillac & LaSalle Club Potomac Region Caddie Chronicle June 2011

Also unique were two 1941 Cadillacs on display. The first, a 1941 "art-carved" or "carved-side" hearse, was displayed by Jay Donaldson of Clarksville, Maryland (top picture above). The carved side design features a large, three section arched panel on each side, resembling the doors of a gothic cathedral, complete with carved folds that resemble draperies. This car had the seldom-seen standard steering wheel that was basic equipment on the 1941 Cadillac, with a center horn button in lieu of a chrome horn ring. The second one, a 1941 Cadillac wooden-bodied station-wagon with coachwork by Bohman & Schwartz, belongs to Daniel Jobe, the President of Capitol Cadillac (bottom picture above).

Cadillac & LaSalle Club Potomac Region Caddie Chronicle June 2011

In addition to that car, Daniel displayed cars from his collection that could have made an interesting Cadillac show by themselves. These included a 1964 Eldorado in a metallic saddle color with matching bucket-seat interior, a white 1967 Eldorado sold new at Capitol Cadillac and now in better-than-showroom condition, a 1973 Coupe deVille in eye-catching Dynasty Red, and a 1978 Eldorado Biarritz in Colonial Yellow with power-operated retractable T-Tops (one of very few produced).

Last but not least, it should be mentioned that another beautiful pre-war Cadillac, a 1929 Model 341 Sport Phaeton displayed by Byron and Alida Alsop, was entered for display only. To be sure, these were not the only noteworthy Cadillacs at the show. Space does not permit discussion of all of them, and I am certain this short list omits many that deserved greater mention.

The Automobilia auction began thirty minutes early due to the higher than usual number of items available. The auction raised $1,727.50 for the Potomac Region.

A unique characteristic of Potomac Region's Spring Shows is the Automobilia auction, in which items donated by members and friends of the Region are auctioned for the region's benefit. We had a bumper crop of auction items, including sales literature, books, scale model cars, parts, and showroom display signs. We also had watches, shirts and hats bearing the Cadillac emblem and even a large ladies' purse with an Escalade-sized Cadillac logo. Special thanks to Rod Kraft from Meguiar's for donating three car care kits. Thanks to the expert auctioneering services of George Boxley, the auction raised $1,727.50 for the Potomac Region.

Two significant donations to the auction were made for reasons that we regret -- the deaths of two former Directors of the Potomac Region during the past year. Charlie Lightbown died in July 2010, and his wife Mary contributed a number of items that Charlie had treasured over the years. Then, in February 2011, we lost the Region's first Director, Steven Sisson, and his wife Margo contributed some of his memorabilia to the auction. We will miss both of these outstanding gentlemen, and hope their wives and families will remain part of the Potomac Region family.

Jo Jo Ruby presented the Ladies' Choice award to Jay Donaldson for his 1941 Art Carved Hearse

Daniel Jobe (left) presented the Best of Show – Overall Award to Pete Sanders for his 1930 V-16 Madame X

Jo Jo Ruby presented the Ladies' Choice award donated by Brenda & Jim George, which reflected the selection of the ladies among the registered car owners, to Jay Donaldson for his 1941 Art Carved Hearse. The 50/50 drawing produced $200 for the Region and a like amount for the winner, Jeff Montgomery from Edison, New Jersey. Thanks to Scot Minesinger for selling the 50/50 tickets to raise money to support our activities. Three national CLC Board members attended the show, Jack McCLOW, Bob Crimmins (who traveled to the show by train from New Jersey), and your author.

The Potomac Region does not award a Hard Luck Trophy, but if it did, the winner would have been Tom McQueen of McLean, Virginia. While Tom was driving around the Beltway en route to the show in his low mileage original 1974 Sedan deVille, he heard a loud bang and the engine in his car quit suddenly. Fortunately Tom was able to coast over to the side of the road, and he called the road service provided by Hagerty, his insurance carrier. Hagerty dispatched a rollback which transported the car to Capitol Cadillac. Scot Minesinger was able to diagnose the problem (a bad coil). Remarkably, Scot had a spare coil in his trunk, which he installed on Tom's Sedan deVille to get it running as sweetly as a low-mileage Cadillac should run. Scot's quick action and willing assistance to a fellow club member exemplifies the best of the CLC spirit.

The Potomac Region extends its utmost appreciation to Capitol Cadillac and Daniel Jobe for their generous support in hosting Potomac Region shows since 1992.

The Fall Show at Capitol Cadillac is scheduled for Sunday October 30, 2011. In keeping with the tradition of special themes at Potomac Region Fall Shows, this year's Fall Show will honor Dazzling DeVilles from 1949 through 1970.
